RE: Campbell House Celebrates St. Louis' 250th Anniversary!

February 14 through February 16, 2014 – St. Louis, Missouri

The Campbell House Museum is excited to announce an exciting opportunity in honor of the 250th Anniversary of the Founding of the City of St. Louis!

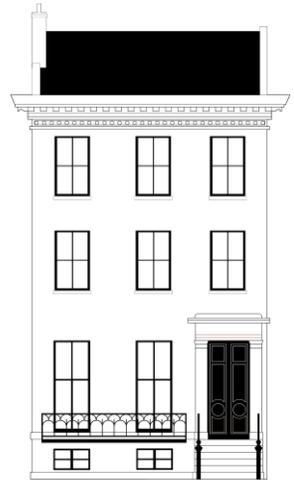

In honor of our great city's founding, Campbell House will be open FREE OF CHARGE to all visitors from Friday, February 14th through Sunday, February 16th, 2014.

Visitors will not only have the opportunity to experience the elaborately restored and originally furnished home of a key family in St. Louis history, but will also have one final chance to experience the lauded and much-publicized "Glorious Gowns" exhibition of the fashions of Virginia Campbell. These beautiful gowns will return to the CHM vault for the foreseeable future at the end of February. Visitors during this special FREE weekend will also get a sneak peek at Campbell House's new upcoming exhibit, "Lucas Place: The Lost Neighborhood of St. Louis' Gilded Age", set to open on March 1, 2014.

Since opening in 1943, the Campbell House Museum has served the greater St. Louis area as one of the nation's premier historic property museums. The house, built in 1851, preserves not only the family home of Robert Campbell—a prominent figure in the history of St. Louis and of the American West— but also the family's collection of original furniture, fixtures, paintings, objects and thousands of pages of family documents. Included in these documents is a unique album of 60 photographs of the interior of the house taken around 1885. In 2000, the Museum began a meticulous restoration project that returned the building to its opulent 1880s appearance, when the house was one of the centers of St. Louis society.
